Some times the people who use health and social care services don't feel they have a strong enough voice to change aspects of the services. The introduction of Bristol Local Involvement Network (LINK) is part of a wider process to help individuals and communities to gain a stronger local voice.

Bristol LINK has been set up to:

- Give everyone a chance to say what they think about their local health and social care services
- Investigate specific issues of concern to the community
- Give local people a chance to check how services are planned and run
- Feedback what people have said about services so that things can change for the better
- Use its power to hold services to account and get results
- Be able to carry out spot checks to see if services are working well (carried out under safeguards)
- Make reports and recommendations and receive a response
- Refer issues to the local Health Overview and Scrutiny Committee or the Care and Safer Community Overview and Scrutiny Committee
